Bad roads will prove one of the greatest impediments to good business in Henderson this winter, as a hardship on all who have to use them for any purpose whatever.—Henderson Gleaner.

President Wilson and Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt were married at the latter's home in Washington at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night and departed for Hot Springs, Va., where they will spend their honeymoon. Arrangements for the ceremony were carried out perfectly. Neither had attendants and only about thirty guests were present. The couple motored to Alexandria, Va., where they entered their private car attached to a special train in order to escape the crowd at the station. Mrs. Wilson was married in a traveling gown of velvet with a picture hat.

MOSELEY GIVES TREE

COMMITTEE IS GETTING BUSY

And Poor Children Will Have Their Usual Joyful Christmas.

The Good Fellows Club is at work in earnest and there will be no empty stockings in Hopkinsville this Christmas.

The committee on raising the necessary funds, which is composed of Lucian Harris, Jewell Smith and Ben Winfree, are old timers at the business and are meeting with success wherever they go and when they call on you do not turn them down, for there is yet a good proportion of the money needed. Each year the number of our poor children is increased and in order that the Good Fellows may take care of this increase it is necessary that more money be subscribed this year than last.

Postmaster Joe Moseley furnishes the tree and at the meeting of the committee last week Joe agreed to furnish all the trees needed as long as he lived. This agreement was put on record and will be faithfully carried out.

The Purchasing Committee composed of Mrs. N. H. Fentress, Claude Clark, A. D. Noe, Jr., and B. D. Hill is a busy bunch and will be until the night of the entertainment. They have a big job before them, for they are trying to purchase that toy that will fit the boy or girl to whom given, keeping in mind what was given this particular boy or girl in the past two years.

The candies, nuts and fruits will be the best that can be had and the toys up-to-date.

Mrs. Gillock will issue all invitations, as she has so well done in the past and she will certainly be a busy woman during the next few days.

The tree will be erected in the lobby of Hotel Latham tomorrow and the Decorating Committee will get busy at once.

A subscription list is on the desk at the Latham and those who can go there and see the tree can have the opportunity of turning in their dollar there.

MEETING FOR ORGANIZATION

Much Interest Shown In The Cattle Breeders Association.

As previously mentioned, there will be a meeting at the H. B. M. A., this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock for the organization of a Cattle Breeders' Association in Christian county. It is planned by Agricultural Agent Casey to bring about an organization and adopt a breed now raised by all of the members. It is believed that the adoption of the Shorthorns as the best utility breed will be unanimous. It is desired that the breed shall be a beef cattle breed especially, but also one that will give plenty of milk.

There are several small herds of Polled Durhams in the county, the latter being the Shorthorns with the horns bred off. All persons interested are urged to attend.

LOOSE SALE BIG SUCCESS

Sales Heavy For The Opening and Prices Good and Strong.

BETTER THAN LAST SEASON

Only Low Grade Types Were Offered at Yesterday's Sales.

The first loose floor sales of tobacco took place yesterday at all of the seven warehouses and not only were the offerings surprisingly heavy but the prices were not only firm but considerably in advance of last year's prices, especially on low grades. Most of the offerings were low grade types, common and low leaf and lugs, and the prices were from 50 cents to $1.50 a hundred higher than for the same grades when the season closed last spring. This satisfactory opening of the market has created a feeling of buoyancy that is gratifying all around. The only drawback was that some of the tobacco came in too high in order, due to the recent wet spell.

Figures were not available, but several hundred thousand pounds were sold.

Prices were Trash, $2 to $3; lugs, $3.50 to $5; common leaf, $4 to $6; medium leaf, $7 to $9.50.

MAYOR TO SELL BONDS

Bids To Be Opened Tonight For a $100,000 Issue.

OUT-OF-TOWN BIDDERS HERE

Sixty Thousand Dollars To Be Used To Refund 1910 High School Bonds.

Bids for the issue of $100,000 of city school bonds are to be opened by Mayor Yost tonight at a meeting held for that purpose. There are expected to be a number of bids from out-of-town people.

The bonds were voted last month. Out of the proceeds of the sale $60,000 will be used to retire a 5 per cent outstanding issue of bonds which were issued without submitting the question to a vote of the people and which the courts have decided must stand as a current indebtedness against the city until retired. The balance will be divided equally between the white and colored schools to provide new buildings, $20,000 going toward the purchase of the McLean college property for use as a white graded school and $20,000 going toward the erection of a new colored school building.

The bonds to be retired cannot be called in until next spring. Most of them are held by the City Bank.

UPHEAVAL IN WAR ZONE

England Looks for Turks-German Attack on the Suez Canal.

VON DER GOLTZ IN EGYPT

Turks Claim to Have Sunk British Monitor in the Tigris River.

London, Dec. 20.—During the relaxation in all the offensives campaigns, except the Italian pressure on the Austrians, which has followed, the expulsion of the Serbian army from its own country, European interest is focused upon the probabilities of some new, but as yet undeveloped, upheaval.

It appears to be taken for granted on all sides that the policy of the central powers will be to attempt to gain a decision somewhere, while the opponents will prefer to devote the winter to preparations for warfare in the spring.

There is much discussion in Great Britain of a reported Turkish-German attempt upon the Suez canal. Messages received from neutral countries professing to have German sources of information describe the German field marshal, Von Der Goltz, as equipping at Aleppo an army for an invasion of Egypt. The same correspondents assert that the Germans are collecting extensive droves of camels and donkeys for their transport.

The Observer today considers a German attempt to invade England as a desperate gamble, one of the foremost possibilities, and that the extensive movement of troops in Belgium may mean preparations for embarking at Zeebrugge and in the Scheldt river.

Officers returning from the western front express the belief that fighting there on a big scale is impossible because the country is mud-dier and altogether in worse condition than last year.

The activity on the Gallipoli peninsula and small Italian gains are the only important military operations reported today.

Germany has lost the small cruiser Bremen and a torpedo boat in the Baltic sea through a submarine attack. It is presumed that the submarine was one of the English undersea squadron which recently has shown enterprise in those waters.

The Turks claim to have sunk a British monitor in the Tigris river near Kut-El-Amara.

Pile Up Nickels and Dimes.

A good plan to break oneself from the habit of spending nickels and dimes needlessly is to put the sum aside one is tempted to spend and watch it mount up. In this way one has a fund to draw upon when things really needed are to be got at a bargain, and the money will never be missed. Also, there will probably be a sum worth while, so that one can lay in a stock of the needed article instead of purchasing one or two with the small available sum. There is an economy in buying a stock. For instance, two pairs of stockings will not last nearly one-third the time six pairs will wear, and the same with lingerie, household linens and footwear. The service is greatly prolonged by keeping up a number of these. If the young housekeeper will try this plan of saving the pennies I am sure she will never break the habit. It will be such a pleasure to know there is a little nest egg that can be spent without being missed. If there is nothing specially to be bought, the sum could furnish the cost of a little outing or the table for a luncheon party, providing little luxuries which otherwise might have seemed extravagant.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

YOUTH OF BASEBALL

Before Game Had Attained Its Present Perfection.

Sport in the "Thirties" Was by No Means What It Is Today. Though Doubtless It Was as Generally Enjoyed.

Back as far as the thirties of the last century—probably even further back—certain localities called the grand old game of today, baseball, by the name we do now. The rules of the game have undergone many changes, although some of the rules today are the same as those in the first set got up by the Knickerbocker club in 1845. Fourteen rules comprised the first set, as compared to the hundred or more of today, to say nothing of the many sections of the different rules.

The following is a description of "Massachusetts Baseball" as played on the Boston common in the early thirties:

The number of players on a side might vary from six to twenty, but eight was the regulation number. The field was an irregular polygon. There were really five bases, for the home base and the batter's base were not coincident. The ball was made of any soft and elastic material, such as wound yard, a sturgeon's nose, and later, hollow rubber. The pitcher—known as the "thrower" or "giver"—stood midway of the polygon. The catcher stood up close behind the bat, but he had a "scout" to assist him, since this game, like cricket, made no distinction between fair and foul balls—anything off the bat was a hit. There were no basemen, for a runner off base was put out—just as in rounders—by being hit with the ball. Five scouts assisted in fielding balls and "soaking" the runner. Hence the soft ball. A ball caught off the bat or on first bound was out. Even after real baseball came this game had long survived.

Then afterward there came an evolution of baseball in New York. One-o-cat, two-o-cat and three-o-cat were the most popular kinds of baseball indulged in by the New York boys until 1840, when one-o-cat became the fad. One summer afternoon in 1842, as the boys were playing around the famous Murray Hill grounds in New York city, Alex J. Cartwright happened along and told the youngsters he had a better game than the one-o-cat affair. The boys were willing to find out what the new contest was and at once proceeded to ask Mr. Cartwright about it.

Mr. Cartwright scratched off the diamond in the Murray Hill dust with a stick and the boys watched with open eyes and listened with open ears as he laid off the diamond, using stones for the bases and home plate. He set a player at each base and three scouts, as they were called then, in the outfield. So with eight players on a side, no shortstop, the New York lads played their first real game of baseball.

It was a matter of ten years afterward before "Dicky" Pearce made the position of shortstop a regular place on a ball team, Pearce's ability to get infield grounders and his throwing arm giving him the honor. The yarn ball then gave way to a heavier and larger ball than the one used today. The ball at that time cost two dollars. The "pill" was covered with sheepskin, the cover being sewed on in four sections by the village shoemaker. The Knickerbocker club was the first ball club to be formed and held the honor of being the only one of its kind until the Gothams put in their appearance.

Back to Colonial Days.

The announcement that a certain section of Philadelphia is to be paved with cobblestones will, no doubt, be received with joy by jesters in other cities, but when it is known that this is merely one of the details in restoring the colonial atmosphere to the grounds surrounding Independence hall, residents of the Quaker City will give a sigh of relief. The hall itself was restored years ago, and a committee of the Philadelphia chapter of the American Institute of Architects appointed for the "preservation of historical monuments," has undertaken to restore the exterior of the famous building to the exact condition—or as near so as possible—that existed when the fathers met to promulgate the Declaration of Independence.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Nearest Fixed Star.

Alpha Centauri is the sun nearest to the earth of all the fixed stars. One of the most magnificent of the first magnitude stars even to the naked eye, the telescope reveals it all suddenly as two great masses of solar fire, the flames, red, yellow and blue, blown upward and outward to the right by the winds of the universe. The great pair of rainbow flames appear to stand out like tangible objects in the depths of infinitely remote space many times larger than the naked eye stars. One of the two revolves about the other in a period of 80 years. It is one of the most stupendous and awful visions and the most absolutely beautiful that eyes have ever seen.

WIDE TIRES IMPROVE ROADS

They Have Same Effect on Country Highways as a Roller on Plowed Field—Wagon Pulls Easier.

The following appeared in a recent issue of "Extension News Service," published by the University of Nebraska.

Wide tires build up roads and save horse labor, according to the department of agricultural engineering at the university farm. They have the same effect upon a country road as a roller on a plowed field. On the other hand, the narrow tire cuts up a road like a disk. It has been found by actual test in this department that the wide-tired wagon pulls easier in nearly all cases than the narrow-tired wagon. In deep mud on a country road the wide-tired wagon pulls 6.2 per cent easier. On the country road with a thin surface of mud or deep dust, however, the narrow tires pull 4.9 per cent easier. In a cornfield the wide tires pull 30.5 per cent easier, in a dry alfalfa field 17.7 per cent easier, and on a dry country road 10.2 per cent easier.

Assist Your Stomach

To Get Rid of the Poisonous Gases and Fermenting Food.

A good long fast will do this sometimes. A trip to the mountains. Tramping. Roughing it. Yes, very good remedies.

But are you going to avail yourself of either one of these remedies. No? Then the next best thing is to try a bottle of Peruna. Take it according to directions. You will have a natural appetite. All gas and fermentation in the stomach will disappear.

Read what Mrs. Emma Bell, Box 204, Fort Pierce, Florida, says: "I was taken suddenly with swelling of the stomach and bowels, and great distress. Very painful. Three doctors gave me no relief. Could not eat anything. Everything soured. I was starving to death. I began taking Peruna and was soon strong enough to do work. After taking five bottles I can truthfully say I am well. I gained twenty pounds."

ROAD BUILDING

GOOD MANAGEMENT OF ROADS

Road Specialists of Department of Agriculture Place Blame for Defects in Highways.

When a county builds a good road and soon lets it become rutty, washed out, or uneven, who or what is principally to blame? As a result of a study of conditions in a number of counties, road specialists of the department are inclined to place the responsibility upon the following defects in road management, some or all of which are found in all counties where good roads are not properly repaired and maintained:

1. County boards, although having full administrative authority, appear not to attach to their official action in road matters the importance or legal effect which it should have.

2. County boards do not generally have sufficient accounting control of road funds to know what is available for any particular project, where funds have been or where existing balances are to be expended.

A Michigan Improved Road.

3. Lack of any systematic practice in handling road funds among most counties makes it very difficult to carry out over even a single year any persistent maintenance policy, because funds officially obligated for maintenance purposes are not protected against sporadic and irregular drafts for miscellaneous purposes. The greatest likelihood consequently exists everywhere that there will be no balance in the maintenance fund in the last half or third of the year, although only a part of the fund allotted may have been spent.

4. Local labor available for maintenance work is made dissatisfied by the constant, unintelligent, and unfavorable criticism of those using the road.

5. Maintenance continuing over a period of years—the ultimate indispensable condition of effective maintenance—is jeopardized by the lack of accounting control that will prevent spending next year's current income in this year.

6. The lack of skilled supervision in construction and the effect of this in increasing the cost or in making effective maintenance impossibly expensive is everywhere seen.

7. The county authorities are commonly opposed to following suggestions for maintenance that involve tying up road funds in any way, such as purchasing materials in advance to store along the road for making repairs or maintaining the road surface.

Expect Too Much.

The trouble with most "supersensitive" children is that they are not satisfied with their parents after growing up.—Washington Post.

KOENIG'S PLOT TO DYNAMITE

Alleged Head of German Secret Service in America Is Arraigned.

SURE NATION-WIDE SCHEME

Government Authorities Declare They Have Evidence of Crimes.

New York, Dec. 19.—With the arraignment here today of Paul Koenig, said to be the head of the German secret service in this country, and Richard Emil Leyendecker, a New York art goods dealer, on a charge of conspiring to blow up the Welland canal, federal officers asserted they had in their hands the clues to a country-wide conspiracy to blow up munition plants, which has already resulted in the loss of many lives and the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of property.

For several years Koenig has been the head of the detective force employed here by the Hamburg-American Steamship company. The company which is subsidized by the German government, was quick to come to his aid and through a local surety concern, supplied $50,000 bail for him and $30,000 bail for Leyendecker.

White Slave Prosecution.

The federal government has been extremely active in enforcing the Mann white slave law, according to the attorney general's view for the year, as submitted in his yearly report. It asserts that white slavery for profit is being checked. In the last year there were 482 cases and 302 convictions, 57 acquittals and 1 case nolle prossed.

The law is designed to prevent the transportation of women from one state to another for the purposes that the law outlaws. The person paying the transportation of such a woman is held culpable. Primarily the law was intended to check commercialized vice, or the exchange in women as a business. It has been applied to individuals regardless of whether they were in the traffic for money.—Evansville Courier.

Struck By a Glut.

Mr. J. P. Watson, of Montgomery, sustained quite a painful injury last Thursday from which he will not entirely recover for some time. He and a colored man by the name of Andy Petree were splitting fence posts. Mr. Watson was setting the wooden glut while the colored man was using the mail. Mr. Watson set the glut, and when Petree struck it with the mail, the glut flew out and struck Mr. Watson in the forehead, cutting a severe gash and knocking him unconscious for several hours. A physician was hurriedly telephoned for, and after his arrival it was some time before Mr. Watson regained consciousness.—Cadiz Record.

MARY PICKFORD

AT THE REX TODAY.

Mary Pickford adds another striking characterization to her notable repertoire of screen successes in the Famous Players Film Company's five-part adaption of Frances Hodgson Burnett's great drama of optimism. "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," at the Rex To-day.

In this celebrated play, which gladdened the hearts of so many when created on the stage with Eleanor Robson, and the screen version of which will cheer as many thousands more, Mary Pickford portrays the weird and wonderful character of Glad, the beautiful and ragged girl of the London slums.

Instant Death.

Charles Ellsworth, twenty-six years of age, a clerk for the K. & I. railroad, Louisville, was instantly electrocuted when an umbrella which he carried came into contact with a charged wire of the Cumberland Telephone Company. The wire was in his path and he touched it with the umbrella point.

FORD'S PEACE SHIP CONTINUES VOYAGE

British Release Vessel After Captain Promises to Re- turn Part of Cargo.

London, Dec. 20.—Announcement was made by the foreign office that the steamship Oscar II, having on board the Ford peace party, has been permitted to proceed on her voyage to Christiania.

The steamship sailed from Kirkwall for Christiania and Copenhagen. Guarantees were required that certain parts of the steamship's cargo must be returned to England.

The captain of the Oscar II has given a bond to return to England the part of the cargo in question, which has been declared contraband.

Henry Ford made an urgent request that the steamship be allowed to proceed. He told the British authorities he believed he could arrange peace if permitted to visit neutral countries.

In Memoriam.

Miss Ann Guynn was born in Christian county, Ky., Nov. 14, 1830, where she lived until Dec. 10, 1915, when she passed away to join the ranks of the blessed in the great beyond. Gentle, unobtrusive, kind and cheerful, her life was a benediction to all with whom she came in contact.

Through her long life she went unostentatiously about her duties, as a daughter, sister, friend, neighbor and Christian; her influence always uplifting and carrying sunshine and good cheer with her. She illustrated in her daily life the beautiful spirit of the Master whom she served so well.

Her Christlike gentleness and sweetness in adversity, sorrow and pain as well as in prosperity and good health, endeared her to all who knew her. With a keen wit and cultured mind, she was delightful in the social circle in which she moved and her presence was welcomed among the most cultured as well as among the humblest, to whom she came as a ministering angel.

The Book of books was her daily, constant companion and guide and her life showed that she followed its teachings.

Industrious and careful, prudent in speech, always ready to see the good side of our poor human nature, she set a fine example to the world, of what a true woman should be.

A blessed memory is hers.

POSSUM HUNTER SENTENCE AFFIRMED

Many Will Go to Jail For Strip- ping and Beating Old Women.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 20.—The affirming of an eleven-year sentence given Pres. Jenkins of Butler county, alleged member of a "Possum Hunter" band, by the court of appeals, leads to the belief that a hundred men under indictment in Western Kentucky for "possum hunting," will be convicted. Jenkins was convicted of confederating, and the point at issue on appeal, was whether proof of other acts involving confederation by the same band could be used in establishing the cases against the defendant. Jenkins was charged with participating in a raid on the home of several women, taking them from the house, stripping them, and administering an unmerciful beating. One of the women beat up was 65 years of age.

The court commended the men conducting the case for their fearlessness of threats of personal injuries against them made by members of the lawless band.

Unromantic Ills.

Do you suppose the romantic personages of the past suffered as we do from colds in the head and other kindred affections? Picture Cleopatra when preparing to apply the asp to her breast pausing in the proceedings to blow her nose violently. Fancy Antony stopping in his oration over the dead body of Caesar to sip a glass of water or to slip into his mouth a jujube lozenge from the sleeve pocket of his toga. Imagine Henry V, unable to breathe properly through his nose on account of a severe rheum contracted in the misty trenches of Agincourt, adjuring his troops, "Once bore unto the breach, dear friends, once bore," or words to that effect. Or Juliet, languishing on her balcony, sneezing violently in the midst of her ardent responses to Romeo, because the nights had drawn in chill at Verona and she was rather too lightly clad. Such ribald fancies are unthinkable. Before the squallies Romance with averted face flits lightly away.

Jimmy's Essay on Teeth.

Teeth are funny things. They ain't there when you are borned and they ain't there when you die but they give you trouble all the time your alive because they hurt when they are going and when you eat candy between times. Grandpaw says his teeth are the only ones in the family that don't cause trouble. And that's because he wears his in his pocket most up the time. The only teeth that don't never hurt is the top ones in a cow's mouth and they never bother her anny because she ain't got none there.—Paragraphs.

Zanzibar has 645,000 acres of land, of which 240,000 are cultivated.

DEPLORES HABIT OF GUSH

Medical Journal Takes Strong Stand Against What It Declares to Be an Error.

The gushing habit is another form of the hysterical frenzy. The subject is to be the point now because in too many quarters there is a tendency, not to reform or discipline but to gush—to swell with emotion over the fallen angels who are sent to prisons. The kind of gush we are thinking of is true windiness that is fond of declaiming against the terrific bogey of punishment; that tells us in platform efforts that children and criminals should not be punished; it is the form of babble which we associate with pompous sermonizing and hands laid on hearts—the emptiness and windiness that incite the public to pose before the mirror and admire itself prodigiously. It is not only an absurd and dangerous habit, but a morbid one.

Hysterical gush and windiness serve no good ends, except to butt thick heads against hard facts. They help to deceive the people for a time, to deceive them as to their brains and nerves; to prevent them from regarding increasing idiocy and hysteria clearly enough in the light of symptoms of national disease. The way most assuredly to fight the malady is not to go "up in the air" on political or practical airships, armed by crazy mobs, for on such a craft it is impossible to steer clear of vertigo or provide rules of law and common sense. —New York Medical Journal.

Bringing Back Old Times.

RUINS THAT ARE MISNAMED

Uttogether Wrong Titles Given, for Instance, to the Mesa Verde Cliff Dwellings in Colorado.

Many visitors to the prehistoric cliff dwellings of the Mesa Verde National park in southwestern Colorado are astonished to find that what is commonly described as a dwelling is not properly a dwelling at all but a village or city. The celebrated Cliff palace is not a palace. Neither is Spruce Tree house, nor Balcony house a house. Each of these is a complete town which once, in the dim ages before the earliest Indian tradition, was an organized community, often of considerable size.

The arrangement of houses in a cliff dwelling of the size of Cliff palace, for example, is characteristic and intimately associated with the distribution of the social divisions of the inhabitants. The population was composed of a number of units, possibly clans, each of which had its own social organization more or less distinct from others, a condition that appears in the arrangement of rooms. The rooms occupied by a clan were not necessarily connected, although generally neighboring rooms were distinguished from one another by their uses.

On Losing Your Temper.

There is an old saying to the effect that the Jesuits are wise; they never lose their temper. "I think they're an excellent thing," said a well-known churchwoman, in speaking of baseball pools. Her remark fairly took several persons with whom she was talking off their feet, and it was several seconds before the others had recovered from their surprise sufficiently to answer. Finally one of them asked her if she knew that the pools were practically nothing more than the old lotteries that were suppressed years ago. "Oh," she said, flushing, "is that what they are? I thought they were something like the swimming pools."—Worcester Post.

The True Funeral Director.

The true funeral director is serious, but not gloomy; dignified, but not morose, gentle, but not fawning; self-possessed, but not self-conscious, quietly masterful but not bossy; alert, but not fussy; watchful, but not nervous; pathetic, but not lachrymose; a kindly, unassuming master of ceremonies.—From a paper read at a convention in San Francisco.

Cold Light.

Rare atmospheric gas known as neon, which was first isolated in 1898 by fractional distillation of liquid air, is now used successfully in electric lighting. If a mild electric current passes through a tube that contains a minute quantity of neon, it produces a golden light that is soft and agreeable to the eyes, and makes the object it illumines stand out with remarkable sharpness. The neon tubes require less current than the mercury-vapor lamp and give out less heat than any other form of electric light. Moreover, the electric current disintegrates the new gas very slowly; the tubes will produce light for from eight hundred to a thousand hours without being renewed. Recently four neon tubes, nearly 120 feet long, were successfully used to light an exhibit at the Grand Palais in Paris.

Tied by Prejudices.

The confirmed prejudices of a thoughtful life are as hard to change as the confirmed habits of an indolent life; and as some must trifle away age, because they trifled away youth, others must labor on in a maze of error, because they have wandered there too long to find their way out.—Bolingbroke.

Many People Don't Know.

A sluggish liver can cause a person an awful lot of misery. Spells of dizziness, headaches, constipation and biliousness are sure signs that your liver needs help. Only 25c, at your Druggist.—Advertisement.

Scrap Book Paste.

A simple and effective paste is made by covering the desired quantity of topiaca with cold water, putting on the fire, and stirring. Add more water while it boils to make it of the consistency of paste. This can be used on wood, leather, paper, or rubber, and is especially good for scrap books and photographs.

LETTER MAILED IN 1860 REACHES DESTINATION

Son of Man to Whom it Was Written Receives it--Lost For Fifty-Five Years.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 20.—A letter written by the Rev. Samuel Ward of Neoga, Ill., November 6, 1860, the day he cast a ballot for Abraham Lincoln, was received through the mails here by Prof. W. D. Ward, of Occidental College, a son of H. O. Ward, of Zanesville, O., the man to whom it was addressed. Where the letter went after it was mailed will remain a mystery.

The next postmark after that of Neoga in 1860 is that of College Station, N. Y., August 23, 1910. The letter reached Zanesville last October and after search had been made for the addressee, was forwarded here to Prof. Ward, who lacks three days of being as old as the letter.

WAGED WAR FOR A CENTURY

Conflict Between France and England Consumed Best Part of a Hundred Years.

The Hundred Years' war was fought between France and England in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries over the question of the English sovereign's claim to the French crown, and the lesser matter of the English king's vassalage to the French ruler for the hereditary French possessions of the English royal house of Plantagenet. The battles of the Hundred Years' war were fought in France. The war broke out in the year 1346 with the invasion of France by Edward III of England, who in 1340 had declared his claim to the French throne through descent from Isabella, daughter of Philip the Fair of France. There had also been trouble with the French king over the English sovereign's vassal duty as duke of Guienne. The first period of the Hundred Years' war was the famous time of the Black Prince, and of the battles of Crecy (1346), Poitiers (1356). After the death of Edward III the war, according to histories, "almost ceased for a generation." But in 1414 Henry V of England renewed the claim to the French throne and war broke out again. This was the time of the famous battle of Agincourt, and during the first part of this second period—until his death—Henry V was the hero of the war. Then Joan of Arc arose to save France. Joan raised the siege of Orleans in 1429 and crowned Charles VII king of all France, in the cathedral of Reims. Joan was executed in 1431. The war dragged on until the treaty of peace in 1453, by which England gave up all claim to her continental domain with the single exception of Calais.

HE'S ALWAYS PREPARED.

"What do you think of preparedness?"
"I believe in it. For instance, when I've stayed down with the boys until after midnight I don't wait till I get home to think up an excuse. I have one ready to spring the minute she calls for it."

THEY GET RESULTS.

"I presume that electricity is the most powerful single agent known to man."
"Perhaps so, but I have in mind a close second to it."
"And that is?"

ANTIDOTE FOR SNAKE BITE

Scientists of East India Believe They Have Found a Remedy of Great Importance.

According to the handbook on British India just published by the United States Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, good results have been made in India to prepare antidotes against the bite of certain species of poisonous snake that have caused great mortality in that country. At Parel laboratory, Bombay, venom from live cobras is injected into horses in gradually increasing doses for a period of two years, until the animal acquires immunity to the poison, and, according to the familiar principle of serum therapy, the serum of the immunized horse constitutes an antivenin, which is said to be an infallible cure for cobra bite if injected promptly enough into the patient. This laboratory also prepares an antivenin against the bite of Russell's viper, but has not yet produced any against that of the krait (Bungarus) or Echis Carinata. During the 25 years ending 1911 more than half a million human beings were killed by snakes in India. —Scientific American.

NATURAL RELUCTANCE.

"If you have any ambition you want to come within the scope of all world travel."
"Not if it's a periscope, sir."

ARE YOU "CLASSY"?

"My pet abomination is 'classy.' What's yours?"

ITS FITNESS.

"This is an appropriate affliction."
"What is?"
"A grass widow with the hay fever."

ITS TIMBRE.

"That singer has a very thin voice."
"Yes. She ought to pitch all her music in a skeleton key."

Neglected Duty.

There is one duty that human beings conspicuously neglect. It is a tremendously important duty. And it is also, for most human beings, the most attractive duty in the world. Nevertheless, in spite of its attractiveness and its importance, it is seldom spoken of. There are millions of people who don't recognize it as a duty. So they neglect to strive for it. They wonder why they have not achieved the duty. Sometimes they complain bitterly. Occasionally, by a chance, they do achieve the duty without recognizing it as a duty. Then they regret it, and they suffer for the rest of their lives. Surely you know what the duty is. It is simply the duty of being happy.—New York Telegram.

The Spiritual Life.

"Spiritual music can only come from discords set in unison," said Carlyle. It would be worth the time and space of a whole sermon to dilate upon that wonderful truth. Good comes not from an easy, languishing life, where virtue meets no opposition and where courage encounters no defiance. All discords are created by divine love to make spiritual music out of. Those who do not meet with such discords will not hear such music. Such experience is left for sacrifice to turn into harmony. Do you meet a friend who may seem to turn against you, don't leave him till the harmony is restored, not by appeal or instruction, but by the union of your own life. This may seem sentiment, but remember the spiritual life is as harsh and exacting as the material life. These are days that need so much of this fine philosophy, not to say religion, that there is a sweeping tendency toward the dalliance of life that would escape all discords and therefore never hear any spiritual music.—Ohio State Journal.

Daily Thought.

Life, with all its fields of joy and woe, is just our chance of the prize of learning love—how love might be, hath been indeed, and is.—Browning.

If You Do Not Sleep Well.

Should you be a restless sleeper, should sleep come to you only at fits and starts, try simple remedies, and do not plunge into narcotics or stimulants—at least not until the others have failed. A famous English physician is quoted as saying, "I can cure the worst case of insomnia in this manner: When the patient has retired, give her a heaping bowl of bread and milk, with just a dash of salt to season it. This will draw the blood from the head to the stomach, it will quiet the nerves and put the entire body in a healthy glow, and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the patient falls into a healthy, restful sleep." Another tasty dose to take which will induce sleep is a cold orange just before retiring. There are certain sedative as well as stimulating qualities in an orange, and it is probably one of the most efficacious fruits that can be taken for this purpose.

Knew How It Was.

"Willie," the Sunday school teacher asked, "can you tell me why Rachel wept for her children?" "Mebbe it was because the preacher came before she had a chance to git them cleaned up."—Chicago Herald.

Convincing Argument.

One year when the youngsters of a certain Illinois village met for the purpose of electing a captain of their baseball team for the coming season it appeared that there was an excessive number of candidates for the post, with more than the usual wrangling. Youngster after youngster presented his qualifications for the post, and the matter was still undecided when the son of the owner of the ball field stood up. He was a small, snub-nosed lad, with a plentiful supply of freckles, but he glanced about him with a dignified air of controlling the situation. "I am going to be captain this year," he announced convincingly, "or else father's old bull is going to be turned into the field." He was elected unanimously.

Training the Child.

There is a common belief that a child, when left alone, or to its own resources, is resting mentally. If this were true, he would remain a total stranger to the rest of the world, whereas he is like a traveler in life, who observes and comments upon everything that is new to him. He not only makes spontaneous effort to understand, but to imitate.—Doctor Montessori.

Pragmatist's Belief.
The pragmatist believes that we live in a world capable of improvement, but his immediate outlook seems to be upon a pluralistic collection of loose ends, which may perhaps some time be gathered up into a fair embroidery, but of which we have no real certainty and of which we have no pattern. The spiritual idealist, on the other hand, is working upon a remediable, incomplete world, with a clear consciousness that he is striving for an ultimate spiritual unity in which the world will be cleansed and completed. His is an idealism in the making, an idealism which by his own work he can help to realize.

Greatest of All Cathedrals.
St. Peter's cathedral, in Rome, will hold 54,000 people.

Nero's "Lorgnette."
Nero, who was nearsighted, had a small transparent jewel, probably an accidentally formed lens, through which he watched the sports in the arena. The principle of the lens not being known, the power of the jewel was supposed to be of magical origin and the gem was regarded as a very wonderful talisman.

A Generation.
Webster merely defines a generation generally, as "the average life of man, or the ordinary period of time at which one rank follows another, or father is succeeded by child." The Standard dictionary says: "Commonly estimated at one-third of a century." The Century dictionary states that "the historical average is commonly reckoned at about thirty years."

South American Industry.
The sap of the sapodilla tree is very largely used in the manufacture of chewing gum. The tree is cultivated in Mexico and Central America, and the method of collecting the sap, called "chicle," is very similar to that employed in extracting maple sugar. Mexico alone in 1910 exported chicle valued at $170,000, which will give you a good idea of the extent of the chewing gum industry.

Another Definition for Love.
"What is love?" asked the very young man after the manner of his kind. "Love," answered the man with the absent hair, "is an obsession that causes two otherwise sane young people to leave their happy homes and become flat dwellers."

Cotton Waste Has Value.
In Lancashire, England, the cotton waste has an annual value of $75,000,000. This vast sum is represented by fag-ends and sweepings and pickings and combings. Thousands of women are employed to divide this stuff into good, middling, and bad, and it is sold at various prices for different purposes—papermaking, matting, surgical wadding, and, most of all, the making of shoddy.

Trick of the Trade.
"This photographer understands his business, all right." "Yes?" "When people sit for a picture he doesn't say, 'Look pleasant, please.'" "No?" "He tells them they have an intellectual cast of countenance, and while they are beaming at the compliment his camera clicks."

Bohemians Like Fountain Pen.
Fountain pens are most popular in Bohemia and are carried by practically all business men, students and clerks.

Rushed to Mother's Defense.
When arguing the respective merits of mothers, Benny never allowed his mother to be surpassed. This attitude on Benny's part delighted mother, aged thirty-six, until one day he ran in flushed of face and belligerent of eye. "Mother," he shouted, "that guy, Bob, said his mother was forty-three years old and I couldn't stand for that, so I said you were forty-five if you were a day!"—Woman's Home Companion.

WORK OF THE MATCHMAKER

Much Difference in the Motives That Actuate the Male and Female Aids of Cupid.

Matchmaking, if only one can watch it from close by, is the most interesting of all comedies. According to the matchmaker's character, she enjoys the sight of happiness or the unfolding of plot and intrigue. The spectacle renews her youth. It is a piece of work which may have great results, may be productive of a great deal of gratitude, and at least can never be undone.

The role of Providence is intensely attractive. We doubt whether there is any woman who does not hope to play it and shine in it before her death.

Not that men never give their attention to matchmaking, but we think their point of view is somewhat different.

They are actuated, as a rule, by a great desire to serve or please one of the parties concerned, not by the delight of the drama. They desire the end, they do not want to see the working.

ACTING STRANGELY.

"What do you think of a man tryin' to break out of the penitentiary," exclaimed Plodding Pete.

"One o' deez reform penitentiaries with amateur theatricals an' baseball games?" inquired Meandering Mike.

"Sure."

"He ought to break out. He don't belong in no penitentiary. He belongs in a lunatic asylum."

EXONERATION.

"Wasn't Dickens a prolific writer?"

"Oh, no! There ain't anything in any of his books that anybody could take exception to."

WILLING TO OBLIGE.

"Fine library you have here, old man. By the way, have you a book on Greece?"

"No, but here's a book with grease on it, if that will do."

IN AUTO TERMS.

"Here's a man who describes his wife as a limousine. Evidently some lady who is large and heavy."

"Mine's a light runabout."

WOE-PROOF.

"What a cheerful man he is."

"Yes, indeed. You can't tell him a hard luck story that will rob him of his smile."

AND SO HE WENT.

"And did he stay until the graveyards yawned?"

"Nope. I guess he would've, but I yawned first."

Dangerous Idea.
The man who comes into the world with the notion that he is really going to instruct it in matters of the highest importance may thank his stars if he escape with a whole skin.—Schopenhauer.

QUESTION LONG IN DISPUTE

Historians Unable to Agree as to the Religious Belief of Christopher Columbus.

All that is claimed by the most radical historian is that Columbus was of Jewish descent. This theory is based on the following facts: Columbus was the son of Domenico Colombo, a cloth weaver of Genoa, and Susanna Fontanarossa. Those historians who put forward the suggestion that Columbus was of Jewish descent claim that he was born in Pontevédra, Spain, and not in Genoa. Documents are in existence showing that one Colon and one Fontanarossa formed a partnership in the former town in 1437 for the purpose of purveying fish to the archbishop of Santiago. The families of both partners were of Jewish descent. It is assumed that this Colon was the father of the discoverer and that Susanna Fontanarossa, or Fonterosa, who became the mother of Christopher, was a member of his partner's family. The Colon family, though of Jewish blood, adhered to the Christian faith. But it is believed that at the time of her marriage Susanna Fontanarossa had only recently abandoned Judaism for Christianity. Admitting the identity of the Spanish family of Colon with that of the Genoese Colons or Colombos, there would seem to be ground for the allegation that the discoverer of the new world was of the Jewish race.

On the other hand, Columbus wrote like the most pious and devout of Christians. He urged that missionaries be sent to the natives of the lands he had discovered. And in his will he makes the statement, "I was born in Genoa." Despite this statement, however, nine other localities in Italy, Corsica and Spain dispute the claim of the Genoese nationality of Columbus.

Nature Always Active.

It is known that every particle of the earth is in a state of constant activity. Nature abhors stagnation as it abhors vacuum. Even the stagnant, smelly pool of water generates myriad forms of life. Every particle of what we call a stone has a chemistry that is ever changing form. No matter how infinitesimal the infinite atoms of the combined elements of our sphere not one is in the same place today that it knew yesterday. Every hour, every moment experiences change.

Great European University.

Yurief's renowned university was founded by the headlong warrior, Gustavus Adolphus, in 1632, the year of his death. Attached to it are an observatory, an anatomical theater, a museum of natural history, and one of the finest botanical gardens in Europe, whose collection contains more than 12,000 plants. Its library, 250,000 volumes, is housed in a restored part of the old cathedral. The university remained thoroughly German in spirit and sentiment until the year 1895, when it was thoroughly Russified. A long list of great German investigators, who worked and taught at Yurief, until its nationalization, was the intellectual center of the czar's Teutonic subjects.

SUPERIOR RURAL ROAD WORK

Suggestions to Communities for the Construction and Maintenance of Country Highways.

That full value may be received for the money appropriated for road purposes and that the best results obtainable may be secured it is essential that the right man shall be placed in charge of road work. He should be selected not only because he actually knows more about good roads than any other person in the community, but also because he can get the best results from the money furnished. It is not sufficient, however, to let the matter rest with the appointment of a road overseer. He should receive the whole-hearted support of the community in the work. It should be seen to that under the conditions and with the money furnished the community is getting what it has a right to expect in the way of road improvement. It is well to remember that if for any reason an incompetent man is placed in charge of the work the responsibility for failure rests upon the community. There should be no other consideration, therefore, in selecting a road overseer than that of securing a man with the ability to perform the duties required. It should be realized that good roads have much to do with the prosperity of a community and that united action in the right direction is the surest and quickest way to secure them.

Where the road overseer has had but little experience in road work, or where some new and difficult problem is presented to the experienced man, the office of public roads and rural engineering of the U. S. department of agriculture when requested, will offer advice and suggestions for carrying on the work and how best to overcome the difficulties.

To secure a satisfactory road of any type, it is absolutely necessary to remember: First, drainage; second, drainage; and third, drainage. The earth road, properly cared for, will answer satisfactorily for the traffic of many rural sections that cannot afford the better types of roads; but the earth road must be well drained. After this fact is well understood, two other requirements may be taken up—the location of the road and the reduction of grades to a general average of 5 per cent.

With the exception of sandy roads, which are easiest for traveling when damp, all roads must have proper side ditches to carry away the surface water. In order to lead this surface water to the ditch, the road surface must have a crown, or rounded roof, highest in the center and sloping toward the side ditches. A very easy and satisfactory way to keep earth, clay, and gravel roads crowned, by the use of the split-log drag, is explained in Farmers' Bulletin 597, copies of which may be obtained upon application to the department.

After the road has been crowned and the crown is kept in condition by the wise use of the road drag, it should be seen to that ditches are kept free from weeds, etc., and that they are deep enough to carry off the water which runs into them. In most cases a wide, shallow ditch is best. Deep ditches are dangerous to traffic. At spaces of every few hundred feet along the roadway a culvert of some kind should be placed to carry away the water which has gathered in the ditches.

A road properly built generally will not have an average grade of more than 5 per cent. By "per cent of grade" is meant the number of feet the road rises or "climbs" for every 100 feet of its length.

Every Farmer Concerned.
The improvements of good roads and ditches is a matter which concerns every farmer who desires to increase the value of his land or the farm property of the community in which he resides as a whole.

Crown Roads Before Dragging.
Before dragging a road it ought to be crowned properly and the drainage attended to—in other words, put into good condition and then the work of taking care of it will give the best results.

THE LAST RESORT.

"Think what would happen to this country if we were attacked by a powerful enemy!" shouted the apostle of preparedness.

"Well, what would happen?" asked an auditor.

AMERICANS LIVING IN MANILA

Interesting Statistics Regarding the Birth and Death Rate of the Race.

The American population of the Philippine islands may be decreasing, but the permanent American colony of Manila is constantly growing, according to the official census figures of the bureau of health, published in the past quarterly report, an exchange remarks. This shows that of the total population of 266,943 in Manila, 3,584 were American men and 1,890 American women, a total of 5,474.

Another interesting fact shown by the bureau of health report is that the American birth rate is the highest of all classes, the percentage being 39.16 a thousand, as compared with 39 for Filipinos.

While the American birth rate was the highest, the death rate was lower than that for all other classes save "other Europeans," who are given an annual death rate of 2.63 a thousand. The American rate was 7.25.

An interesting point in connection with the figures given in the report is that the permanent American population of Manila has increased by more than 20 per cent in the last five years. It is probable that this does not indicate an increase of American population in the Philippines, but rather a tendency on the part of Americans in the islands to concentrate in Manila.

NOVELTY IN LINE OF ART

Wood Cameo Is Approved by Connoisseurs as Remarkable as Well as Beautiful.

"I saw a new thing in the art line, the other day, which surprised me, and, I may also say, pleased me," said a dilettante in a group of kindred spirits. "It was what the artist called a wood cameo, and it was something I had never seen before."

"That it was wood did not appear as it hung on the wall, and I asked him for particulars. It was about a foot square with an oval center containing a bas relief of a Greek goddess. The square was in ebony and mahogany and the head in white wood."

"He had secured his cameo effects by first building up his square with the three layers, glued and pressed so tightly that there were no marks of cleavage, and had cut through them exactly as cameo carvers cut through the usual shell cameo. The ebony front was plain, but finely polished, and the entire effect was excellent."

"He told me it was his first finished work, though he had been practicing for two years, and while he was not entirely satisfied with it, there was considerable consolation to him in the fact that he had an offer of a hundred dollars whenever he wanted to dispose of it."

LIKE NAT WILLS' TELEGRAM.

The worst of this war excitement is the vertigo with which it affects innocent bystanders. For instance, in the McAlpin lobby a highly reputable man with a fine rating in the commercial agencies, showed me a confidential telegram announcing that the Safety Car Lighting and Heating company had just received an order for $15,000,000 worth of time fuses for big shells. "Now watch that company's stock go up," he said.

He was rather offended when I laughed. I explained to him that I couldn't help it. "You made me think of one of Nat Wills' jokes at the Hippodrome," I said. "He reads a cablegram from the czar of Russia. It says: 'Send 2,000,000 pajamas at once. The Russian army is going to retire again.'"—New York Letter to the Cincinnati Times-Star.

PRISONER SWALLOWS CHECK.

Arthur James, stranger here, charged with passing a worthless check upon a local clothing store, has put one over on the police by eating the check.

He had been working for Frederick Clancey, and was laid off several days ago. He presented a check for $65 at a clothing store, Clancey's name being signed to it. Clancey says it was a forgery.

James crowded the check into his mouth when arrested and chewed it up, swallowing the paper. With no documentary evidence against him the police don't know what to do with their prisoner.—Santa Barbara Dispatch Los Angeles Times.

AMERICAN RICE EXPORTS.

This year's exports of American rice reached the great total of 75,000,000 pounds, far in excess of any previous record. The foreign demand for American rice is increasing rapidly.
